TALLEST MAN VISITS

John Jett, a native of Iceland, visited the Dorsey Trail-plant last Tuesday. He was traveling in a station wagon travelling a house trailer.
The Icelandic giant announced at the Dorsey office that his house trailer was too low for him to stand up in and he wanted to make arrangements to get a trailer he could stand in. Neal Hutto escorted him into the plant and showed him a large furniture van. When Mr. Jett found that he could stand in it, he was in the van, he was delighted and said he thought it was a very good idea. He said he could get it for a house trailer. The plant had been with the North American Show and was on his way to Tampa, Fla.
When the man showed up at the Dorsey plant, work was almost at a standstill for a time, as everybody wanted to see the unusual attraction. One of the office, in describing him, said his hands were like hams, his fingers as large as her wrist.
He was well over 8 feet tall and would make "Big Jim" Folsom look like a small boy in comparison. She said he had to stole in order to pass through the office doors and was unable to sit in any of the office chairs.
His card advertised him as the "world's largest man."

Most Powerful Atom Smasher At Brookhaven

NEW YORK—The most powerful atom smashing force to be created and controlled by man is challenging scientists now working on the 2300-ton steel magnet for Brookhaven National Laboratory's new synchrotron in Long Island. The challenge lies in the fact that the new machine will accelerate atomic particles to a force about three times greater than the most powerful now in existence, thus presenting new problems to be solved before costly installations are made.

Although the estimate of 2500 tons of steel for the magnet is probably conservative, it will not rank with the heaviest (10,000 tons) now used in atom smashing. This is because increased knowledge gained in making previous atom smashers has made possible a "streamlined design."

The big synchrotron is to be in the shape of a circle, with a diameter more than twice the length of a football field. In simple terms, atomic particles will be whirled at high speed into a stainless steel tubular "track" and injected at the end. The particles will continue to gain in force until they attain 25 billion electron volts, when they will be "shot" at a target of atoms, blasting the atoms into their components for study.

The purpose of the steel magnet is to counteract centrifugal force, keeping the particles from hitting the sides of the tubular track and losing energy.

BY MRS. ROBERT CANNON

ONE, TWO, BUCKLE YOUR shoe. We tried to recall favorite nursery rhymes to read the attention of petite and pretty Cheryl and Carol Gannin on our brief visit with them. Completely dominating the scene at "Grandma's" house, the two are a study in contrasts. Cheryl, who is older, is a decided blonde. She is quite animated in actions and speech and loves to explore new places. Brantie sister Carol gazes at you in a demure fashion, looking out from under a bewitching Dutch Boy bob. She stands quietly playing with your bracelet or watch and making little humming noises of pleasure. Both are lovely and both have their mother's lovely dark eyes.

Proud parents of these two are Roy and Ann Gambin. Ann, the daughter of A. C. and Xunpha Dunaway, told us she will be visiting here with her parents some three weeks while Roy is preaching in Fort Lauderdale. Roy's stay in Elba was necessarily brief but we did manage this charming family picture of the Mississippi minister and his family.

As we chatted of old friends I recalled the day when word reached Elba that Cheryl was born. I heard a brief tapping of heels going past the school library door and glimpsed Mrs. Dunaway as she hurried to the telephone. In a few days she was home again equipped with priceless camera studies of the first grandchild. And since then she always has several new photos to show interested friends. We enjoyed our visit with the Gambins and are glad to welcome them home.

The people have voted for a change at Washington. By a popular and electoral plurality that may establish a new high record in the history of the nation, they have elected Franklin D. Roosevelt to the presidency. The Republican reverse, one of the greatest in the history of the party, has put both the Senate and House in the hands of the Democrats by wide margins.

Hoover 81. Eleven county boxes gave Hoover a blank. One of the largest rallies ever seen in this section was held at the Elba High School on Saturday afternoon by Dan Parker near his home on the Elba-Brunley highway. It was nearly six feet long and had 15 rattles. Mr. Parker said he was out hunting kindling wood and almost stepped on the reptile before he saw it. He went to his house and got his shotgun and shot it. Mr. Parker said it was the fourth and largest rattler he has killed this season.

Prep School Bowl Games Should Be Controlled

Elba's winning football team has given local grid fans inside look the past week at prep school bowl operations. The picture they have seen has left a bad taste in everyone's mouth. The dickering, pulling this way and that, long-distance phone calls, pressure groups and other big time dealings that shouldn't be associated with high school football have kept the school, and to some extent the town, in a turmoil.

It all started Wednesday with a long distance phone call from Geneva. The principal there offered to play Elba's B team against the Elba team. Elba had 10 games on her schedule—the maximum any high school team can play in one season under athletic association rules. Elba did not accept a bowl bid unless a game was dropped from the list. Troy had been contacted by Peanut Bowl officials but wanted to play Elba.

The B game offer of the Geneva principal was accepted and Elba became eligible for the Peanut Bowl. About then officials from the Egg Bowl in Graceville, Fla. made an offer for the Tigers to play a Florida team there.

In the meantime, fans in Geneva had become aroused and started making it hot for the principal there. He was severely criticized for substituting a B game contest at their homecoming. It wasn't long before he was back on the phone asking for Elba's first string in Friday night's game. The change was not made, though, and repercussions put the Geneva school official in the hospital. Nervous strain and pressure got on him were just too much.

Elba has a fine group of youth in its football team who undoubtedly will like the prestige and excitement that will go with the bowl game in Dothan. If ever a team deserved the recognition this Tiger squad does. For that reason only are glad arrangements have been worked out and the team will meet the Dothan Tigers Thursday night.

Other than the fact that the team is deceiving and wants to play in the bowl, there is no excuse for all the mess that has been stirred up here the past week. The primary purpose of a school is to teach academic subjects, is not right when a winning football team can create a situation where the superintendent of one school loses the better part of a week's work dickering over another game and another school official is sent to the hospital because of the pressure. Time that could have been spent to a much better advantage on school administration was dissipated in taking care of a really unimportant matter.

No matter whether Elba had decided to play in the Peanut Bowl, Egg Bowl or stay at home, the situation has been unpleasant and shouldn't be permitted to come up again.

Athletics are supposed to teach good sportsmanship, team play and an emphasis on "how you play the game," not who won it. Adults responsible for the manipulations and jockeying back and forth that have gone on the past week can't be accused of setting a good example for the players on this score. Real purpose of an athletic program has been defeated right here.

While this situation has gone beyond the correcting stage, the Alabama High School Athletic Association should not let it happen again. At the next rules making session, they should either prohibit all prep bowl contests or make some provisions for them. If they okay specific post season games, they should appoint officials the same as they do for regularly scheduled contests. These games should be completely under the control of the Alabama High School Athletic Association or should not be permitted at all.

This would do away with all the shenanigans that have been going on around the Wiregrass, the stigma of broken contracts and possibilities of nervous breakdowns.

Airport for Elba Is Still Hanging Fire

Last week's appeal by the Chamber of Commerce for help in finding an airport site for Elba met some response.

The dual benefit of the city getting a sizeable chunk of land at a reasonable cost and helping with the training program at Camp Rucker are the main gains Elba can hope to get from an airport. These benefits will be shared equally among all the citizens. It isn't a case where one group such as the merchants will gain everything because of increased business activity. Chances are it won't increase trade here at all except very indirectly. It will let students and instructors know there is a town here and they might come to Elba to live.

The point is that the airport will add to the city's plant value in the same way that a new machine increases the worth of a business. Everyone has an equal gain when the airport is built because they as taxpayers will own part of it.

By delaying action on this Elba could lose the appropriation that has been set aside in Montgomery. There are 21 other Alabama cities in line who want an airport through the CAA program. It is a good deal for a town and these other municipalities recognize it. When other cities get the opportunity Elba now has, they react like cats. It took one sister city about 30 days to get some land and start work on it. When opportunity comes to Enterprise, it need not knock twice.

If Elba continues to sit down on the job and loses a grant opportunity to get an airport, citizens will not be able to blame politics or any one individual. Since the project has been widely publicized, the fault will be put at the door of every citizen in town if it isn't carried out. It is a successful conclusion. It will be a good inertia on the part of the citizenry that cost them this advancement.

There is no way of telling what this inertia has cost the town in years gone by. In the past 12 months it has almost surely caused the town to be by-passed by at least one industry. This lack of movement on Elba's part, when opportunity does present itself will not only cost the municipality an airport if action doesn't come soon but will continue to hamper any real progress or growth of the town.

Elba will always remain a nice town with some fine people who raise good families. Only trouble is when the children grow up there is nothing much for them to find in the way of employment so they are forced to go elsewhere. Many a youth after graduating from high school has taken the road to greener pastures after a heart-breaking experience of job hunting in Elba. Unless papa owns a farm or business, there just isn't too much in the way of jobs for a youth starting out to earn his own living. It is up to the elders to remedy this and the airport proposition is a good place to start.

Towns are like people. They succeed mainly, not because of any unusual endowment of talent but because of a willingness to do their best. Thomas Edison said, "genius is two per cent inspiration and 98 per cent perspiration." If you would have a good town, well-balanced between agriculture and industry, it takes a lot of perspiration on everyone's part.

Suggestions Made on Getting Rid of 'Junk Mail'

(Montgomery Advertiser)

A year ago, Postmaster General Summerfield amended the postal regulations to permit bulk mailing of circulars, advertisements and the like, to every address on a letter carrier's route.

Every Montgomeryian and Alabamian is by now familiar with the weekly harvest of this "junk mail." It is addressed simply "boxholder," "resident," "occupant," or "householder." Mailed at third class rates, junk is admittedly a net loss to the post office. But it is a net gain to direct mail advertisers who thus realize a considerable savings because the cost of a delivery boy against the sea of junk. Reports there site such facts as an air mail letter from New York taking five days for delivery; a magazine from New York, 15 days.

In answer to the increasing number of protests, The Milwaukee Journal has proposed several courses of action to harass citizens. First, The Journal advises, try writing your congressman. Insist that mail should at least carry the street address. That would impede the junk mailers considerably, and probably result in a sharp reduction in third class tonnage.

Second, suggests The Journal, gather up all junk mail delivered at your home, mark each piece "refused," and return it to your carrier or drop it in the corner collection box. It will go back to the post office for consignment to waste or to be returned for the sender if return postage is guaranteed. In either event, such action will put pressure on the Post Office Department to stop the senseless clutter of the mails.

Third, you might drop Postmaster General Summerfield a note complaining of the use of your mail box as a waste basket. See how he likes getting a lot of stupid mail.

About People and Things

By C. B. McDowell

CHANGES NOTED

Prof. J. W. Bedwell, now instructing at a junior college in Mississippi, visited old friends in Elba Sunday afternoon. He was a member of the Elba High School faculty about 15 years ago, teaching commercial subjects.

While residing in Elba he wed Mrs. Marline Fussell Morrow, widow of Marvin Morrow, who met a tragic death in Florida as the innocent victim of cattle rustlers. Prof. Bedwell said he and Mrs. Bedwell will leave Elba 14 years ago and so many new buildings have been built since that he could hardly recognize some sections of the city.

Mrs. Mary Lenoir suffered a broken hip when she fell in her bedroom Sunday morning. She was admitted to Mizell Memorial Hospital. Because of her age (89) an operation to correct the broken bone was decided against. She has suffered much pain and requires close attention.

COOPERATORS THANKED

Sam J. Casey requested The Clipper to express his thanks for the wonderful cooperation shown by the business men and all others who gave such valuable aid in making Elba schools homecoming day the success it was. This year it is a catastrophe and the Tigers were not playing good ball when the opponents score.

Such adverse criticism is unfair. Although Elba went into the Samson game with several regulars on the sideline, the reserve managers to come from behind and win.
